From Guardrails to Go-Live

Anatomy of an AI Agent Deployment

Benny Tan opens and closes the session. Eashan Gupta, Agentec Intelligence, runs the case with the room.

You will work one family's move on your own phone, and the room reads its own work off the screen.

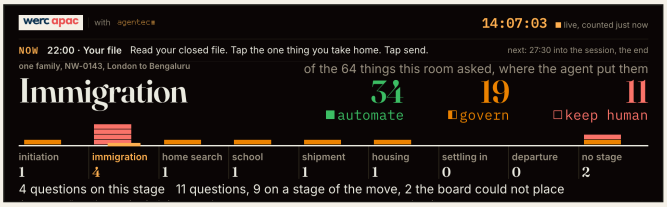

what happens

One family's move opens on your phone in twenty seconds, with an agent already working the file. Three rows we tap together, then five silent minutes on your own question, and three of your rows read off the screen behind the stage. Every answer carries its verdict, the source it read and the person who approves it. What it refuses goes to a person at a desk in this room.

the half hour

	30 / 45	what the room does
lunch		the code on your table. Ask it one thing
0:00	0:00	the promise, and the lunch numbers
1:00	1:15	move one, the shipment green
2:30	3:00	move two, the housing and its cost orange
4:30	5:30	move three, the husband red
6:00	7:00	the open hand. Five silent minutes
after it		three of your rows, read off the screen
11:00	15:00	the case, called before it is answered
13:00	18:00	the arrival note, from the record
15:00	20:00	the desk. One key approves for the room
cut	23:00	the vote, and the rule in three lines
18:00	27:00	the last block. Your own Monday, in a line
22:00	34:30	the six sentences, and your file, closed
27:30	42:30	back to Benny

The calendar says thirty minutes; the second column runs if the slot grows. The rows in bold are never cut. If the morning overruns, the vote goes first.

the screen behind the stage, at rest. The move runs across it as one line, with a mark for every question the room has asked at each stage, and the three verdicts counted above it. The numbers are made up: the session has not happened yet.

what a delegate says on Monday three from each chair, each earned at a minute

a corporate, HR or mobility

`1:00` "A status answer that names its source and its time means I stop being the person who chases the provider."

`2:30 and 15:00` "When an assignee quotes their own AI at our policy, the agent answers with the clause and its date, drafts the exception, and a named person approves it in a minute with a receipt."

`4:30 and 11:00` "The machine never decides who may work: it says so in one line, names the person who will, files it, and that is the answer to my AI says."

a provider, RMC or destination agent

`1:00` "The corporate's agent reads the record we keep; keep it current and the chasing stops."

`2:30 and 15:00` "A draft that carries the policy line and the numbers is approved in a minute; one that does not waits a week."

`4:30 and 11:00` "The refusal is the service: an agent that files the visa question to a qualified adviser with the file attached is what the corporate pays us for."

scan it and it is yours

`werc.agentec.cloud`

Bring your phone, and the question you think would break it. The same code is on every table tent and on the back of every badge. If a camera will not read it, type the address.

No product tour, no prices and no slides. Agentec Intelligence builds and runs the AI operating system for moving and relocation companies. The system does the work. A person signs.